Envoys Gather To Complete Atlantic Pact

Finishing Touches Being Placed On Historic Mutual Assistance Pact

EXPECT DENMARK TO JOIN SIGNING

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—North Atlantic Alliance envoys gather late today to put the finishing touches on the historic mutual assistance pact.

Publication of the exact text, most of whose details already are known, will follow within days thereafter, setting into motion the formal machinery for its effectiveness.

The envoys meeting with Secretary of State Dean Acheson this afternoon have received final instructions from their home governments, calling for insignificant changes.

Danish Minister Here
Prior to probably the last formal meeting of the envoys, Danish Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen was to consult with Acheson at the state department.

Rasmussen arrived in Washington last night by train from New York. He had flown from Copenhagen but weather conditions forced him to finish the journey by rail.

The Danish leader already has been advised that his government will overwhelmingly support adherence to the treaty but he is in Washington to study the terms of such an alignment. It was believed possible that he might attend this afternoon's session of the envoys.

Expect Denmark To Join
In any event, Denmark is expected to join in formal signing of the agreement sometime in the first week of April. At that time (Continued on Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

For one of the few times during the present winter, buses on the city lines had to be equipped with chains on the wheels this morning.

Salt was being thrown around on some of the sidewalk intersections this morning, in the downtown area, to make travel safe for pedestrians.

It will not be long now until the new auto license tags for 1949 can be placed on cars. Many local drivers have already received their license tags for the year.

In winter's flakeback that developed overnight, Lawrence county didn't fare as badly as some areas of the western end of the state. Five or six inches of snow came down in some areas to the east of Lawrence county, it is reported, while only about an inch stayed on the ground here. Weather turned colder, however, and icy streets and highways developed, making travel difficult.

Ashing crews of the city and county were busy during the night as weather conditions changed from the mild weather of the preceding days to real March. Snow and rain, freezing on the highways and streets made action of ashing crews necessary in many sections.

Just one year ago, weather conditions were very much similar to those experienced yesterday and today, except that the mercury never stopped going down on March 11, and dropped to seven below zero during the night.

Driving conditions were about as bad this morning as at any time during the winter, the highways being coated with ice and snow. Over two inches of snow fell, but much of it, which fell last evening melted.

Daily Weather Report
United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine a. m. today follow:
Maximum temperature, 44.
Minimum temperature, 26.
Precipitation, .36 inches, rain and two inches snow.
River stage, 6.7 feet.

Statistics for the same date a year ago, follow:
Maximum temperature, 42.
Minimum temperature, 18.
Precipitation, .23 inches, two and half inches snow.

Eight Hundred At Girl Scouts Dinner Meeting

Thirty-Seventh Anniversary Of Founding Of Organization Observed

PROGRAM GIVEN AT CATHEDRAL

Successful was the observance of the 37th anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scout organization in this country Thursday evening, when local scouts enjoyed a dinner meeting in the Cathedral. Places were arranged for over 800 with families sharing in the national celebration.

Yellow and green were used as the color scheme of the tables, where a delicious banquet was served by the Womans' Club. Flags of various nations were used in decoration, as "International Friendship" was the program's theme with Miss Emily Rice, commissioner, serving as mistress of ceremonies. A birthday cake centered the speakers table.

Miss Juliette Low started the Girl Scout organization at Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912. Troops all over our country are observing March 6 to 12 as National Girl Scout Week.

After Miss Rice, introduced by Mrs. N. J. McCluskey, greeted the guests, she stated that more leaders, troops and troop committees mean more scouts. Day camp will (Continued on Page Two)

Coating Of Ice On County Roads

Cinderling Crews Out Early Last Night To Combat Hazardous Conditions Here

Extremely icy conditions prevailed all over the county last night. According to Highway Superintendent Alfred Martin all roads of the county were uniformly affected by the melting snowfall which later developed into a hazardous coating of ice.

Cinderling crews were called into action at 9 o'clock last night and most of the highways were well ashed. The men were out again at five this morning, spreading ashes throughout the county on all highways that have been affected by the worst general icing conditions to prevail here this winter.

Huntingdon Man Hurt By Fire Hose
HUNTINGDON, Pa., March 11.—(INS)—Ray H. Coffman, 48, a Huntingdon borough employee, was in a critical condition last night in the J. C. Blair Memorial hospital at Huntingdon after having his eyes critically damaged when a high pressure fire hose "snaked" and hit him in the face.

The writhing hose, being tested by Coffman and another employee, was torn from their hands by the pressure.

Physicians said Coffman's right eye was destroyed and held little hope for the other.

Axis Sally Will Seek New Trial

Convicted As Traitor To Her Country After Trial In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(INS)—Mildred "Axis Sally" Gillars, convicted as a traitor to her country by a federal court jury, was slated today to demand a new trial.

Acting swiftly on the heels of the jury's "guilty" verdict, defense lawyer James J. Laughlin said the demand would be formalized in a legal motion before 4 p. m. EST today.

Laughlin said it would be based on allegations that Judge Edward M. Curran's instructions to the jurors were "inflammatory" and that the judge committed legal errors.

Miss Gillars, grey-haired and 48, was pronounced "guilty" at 4:28 p. m. Thursday 28 hours and 25 minutes after the seven men and five women of the jury began their deliberations.

New Cease-Fire Agreement Made

(BULLETIN)

RHODES, March 11.—(INS)—Israel and Trans-Jordan signed a formal cease-fire agreement at Rhodes today, to be effective until it is superseded by a general armistice.

The agreement binds both sides to observe the truce but there are no restrictions on the disposition of their forces within the territory that each occupies.

It extends the scope of the cease-fire order that has been effective in the Jerusalem area since last November.

REPORT PLOT TO ASSASSINATE U. S. OFFICER SMASHED

ATHENS, March 11.—(INS)—Greek police announced today the smashing of a Communist plot to assassinate Lieut. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, head of the American military mission to Greece.

Police Chief Angelos Evert said that all of the Communist rebels involved in the plot have been arrested and that some have confessed. A cache of weapons was said to have been seized.

Evert declined to divulge further details of the attempted assassination. He said that investigations are continuing.

Brussels Pact Powers Will Meet Monday To Discuss Atlantic Pact

LONDON, March 11.—(INS)—Top ministers of the Brussels pact powers will meet in London Monday for full-dress discussions of the final draft of the North Atlantic Pact, which Britain's cabinet reportedly endorsed yesterday.

Foreign, defense and finance ministers of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg will coordinate their plans regarding the historic alliance, which will link them with the United States and Canada in a defensive alignment aimed at halting Soviet aggression.

Another potential member of the treaty—Italy—will move today toward a final decision on joining the Atlantic group, even before invited. Prime minister Alcide De Gasperi may ask for a vote of confidence this afternoon on his government's desire to commit Italy to the alliance as a charter member.

Italy has not as yet received a formal invitation to join the group, but foreign minister Count Carlo Sforza said last night that a bid is expected tomorrow or Sunday.

When the western union ministers convene on Monday they will also thrash out problems affecting the proposed "council of Europe." The projected European parliament.

Train Robbery Was Result Of Angry Impulse

So Declares One Of Pair Held For Sensational Holdup Of B & O Train

BOTH YOUTHS HELD IN CASE PAROLEES

By JAMES LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—A youthful desperado who launched a spectacular train robbery because a club car drink wasn't mixed to suit him calmly awaited punishment today while his wounded confederate battled for life.

George Llewellyn Ashton, 21, reformatory parolee, declared that he and Lauran Ramsdell, 23, acted on an angry impulse when they held up passengers and crew of a crack Baltimore and Ohio train near Martinsburg, W. Va., Wednesday night.

The two, both from Youngstown, Ohio, were captured in Washington, five blocks from the White House, 15 hours later and Ramsdell was critically wounded by a fast-thinking policeman who "beat him to the draw."

Ashton Pleads Guilty

Ashton, who pleaded guilty to theft of interstate commerce and was ordered held under $50,000 bond pending federal grand jury action next Monday at Wheeling, W. Va., told reporters:

"We got sore when the club car porter gave us a 'bad drink'—one we didn't like. We got our guns and started through the train, taking money from everybody we saw."

Ramsdell, who underwent an emergency operation at Gallinger hospital, where surgeons found that the policeman's bullet had perforated his stomach and severed an artery, said:

"Don't punish me... I'll be punished enough."

Hunt For Some Of Loot

Authorities meanwhile pressed a "treasure hunt" for between $1,200 and $1,500 in loot which may have been hidden by the modern "Jesse James" bandits.

Police said Ashton and Ramsdell had $563 stuffed in their wallets but railroad officials said that loot (Continued on Page Two)

Need For Lower Cost Housing Is Cited At Meeting

Builders, Labor And Home Financing Interests Attend Meeting Here

FEDERAL PROGRAM FOR YEAR GIVEN

Unless building interests, which include the building contractors, builders supply firms, and home financing institutions can coordinate their efforts to produce lower cost housing units, little home building is indicated during the coming year, it was brought out at the Economy Housing Program meeting held in The Castleton Thursday afternoon.

Oakley W. Heseler, director of the Federal Housing Administration, pointed out that the saturation point has virtually been reached in the construction of housing units which sell above the $8,000 figure. Hence some way must be devised to produce housing units which will sell at prices under this amount, he stated.

Round Presides
The meeting started with a luncheon at the noon hour, and continued through the afternoon. L. B. Round, president of the Greater New Castle Association, presided and after explaining the purpose of the meeting, called on a large group of speakers representing the various interests who have a stake in the program.

Forrest D. Stout, administrative officer of the Federal Housing Administration, gave a few instructions on the conduct of the program. He pointed out the fact that no person or combination of people have all the answers to the program, which is national in its scope. Because of the length and weight of the program, it was asked that no verbal questions be asked, which would involve any (Continued on Page Two)

Filibuster Issue Near Showdown Of Vote In Senate

Expect Senate To Vote On Vice President Barkley's Ruling Late Today

WILL BE DECISIVE ON 'GAG' ACTION

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The senate moved rapidly today into the filibuster-issue showdown on which President Truman's whole civil rights program hinges.

The crucial vote on sustaining or reversing Vice President Barkley's ruling that the 11-day-old Dixie filibuster can be gagged under the existing rule is expected late this afternoon or tonight.

In his decision, the vice president turned down the Dixie contention that a petition of 33 senators for a gag vote at 1 p. m. tomorrow was "out of order" because the filibuster is on a "motion" instead of a "pending measure."

Vote To Be Forged
Democratic Leader Lucas, Ill., said the vote will be forced late today by a "motion to table" the appeal which Sen. Russell (D) Ga., the Dixie leader, filed as soon as Barkley ruled.

The motion to table is not debatable, and will bring an immediate vote. Lucas said he will allow several hours of debate on the appeal before leaders cut off arguments with the tabling motion.

As the critical test neared a high-ranking administration senator admitted privately that he expected defeat.

But the southern Democrats—who had considered their fight won earlier in the week—were worried, too. They were apprehensive the gag-rule advocates might make the gains they need in today's debate.

What Will Result
If administration forces win, they open the way to early passage of President Truman's civil rights program.

If they lose, the Dixie Democrats retain the filibuster weapon. An administration victory actually would make unnecessary the proposed rule change, since it is aimed at closing a loophole which Barkley ruled does not exist.

Barkley held that the present filibuster is subject to closure by a two-thirds vote. He overruled Russell's contention that because (Continued on Page Two)

Premier Urges Italy To Join Atlantic Pact
ROME, March 11.—(INS)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi asked the National Assembly today to vote confidence in his government's plans to negotiate for Italy's participation in the North Atlantic pact.

In a 15-minute speech delivered after the Communists issued a virtual sabotage order to prevent Italy from joining, De Gasperi described the alliance as a "pact of peace" and a purely defensive alliance within the United Nations charter framework.

He said that Italy must become a party to the pact "because of our fatal Mediterranean position."

Hey winter, wait, what is this stuff, how come you're playing mean and tough, for weeks the sun has smiled a lot, and days have been, well almost hot, the buds were out, or nearly so, the we'd forgotten of the snow. But suddenly you roar around, and snow is covering the ground, the wind is cool, the nights are chill, just when we thought you'd had your fill. Lay off my friend, and go away, it's only thirty-eight to-day.

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS MRS. T. FRENCH

Mrs. Frank Robinson, of 906 North Mercer street, entertained members of the Junior Woman's club Thursday evening, at which time Mrs. Frank Robinson Jr., Mrs. Pauline Elliott and Mrs. Arthur Lennig were hostesses. There were 25 present.

Mrs. Walter Green conducted a short business session calling, on the welfare committee chairman, Miss Margaret McCracken, for a report. The welfare committee reported on clothes given to a needy family and told of clothes needed by another family they just learned of. The ways and means committee reported they are still working on a project to raise some money.

Mrs. Travis French was then introduced as the speaker for the evening. She spoke on "Hereditry," her talk being a continuation of one made to the club earlier in the year. She told which traits, characteristics and diseases can be inherited and which ones cannot. Her talk was both interesting and informative.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Thursday, March 24, in the home of Miss Carolyn Rocks, of 209 Sumner avenue, at which time Mary Thompson Denman will be the speaker.

Ritz Club Meets

Mrs. Fred Farone, of Center street, was a charming hostess to members of the Ritz club. Cards were played during the regular meeting.

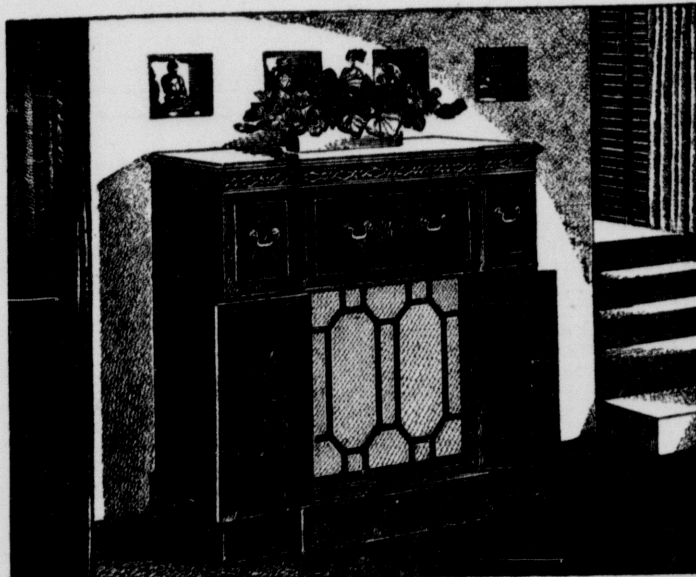

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Anthony Panella and Mrs. Curtis Guckert.

After a brief business meeting, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, aided by Mrs. James Bartlett. Special guest was Jacqueline Aiello.

March 24, is the next meeting with Mrs. Curtis Guckert of South street.

Judith Coplon And Gubitchev Say 'Not Guilty'

Plead Not Guilty To Charges Of Conspiracy To Commit
Espionage

NEW YORK, March 11.—(INS)—Brooklyn-born Judith Coplon and Valentin A. Gubitchev, Soviet employee of the United Nations, pleaded not guilty today to all counts of a federal indictment accusing them of conspiracy to commit espionage.

Miss Coplon, 27-year-old Justice department political analyst, and Gubitchev, 32, a member of the U. N. secretariat, were arraigned before Federal Judge Simon Rifkind.

Both stood smiling in court as they entered their pleas at the brief hearing, for which they were brought by federal marshals from detention cells where they have been imprisoned since their arrests in New York last Friday.

Judge Rifkind continued both defendants in bail and they were returned to their cells. Gubitchev is under $100,000 bond, while Miss Coplon's bail is $20,000.

Filibuster In State Senate Is Threatened

HARRISBURG, March 11.—(INS)—The Senate Republican majority prepared today to ride out a threatened Democratic filibuster designed to stymie Gov. James H. Duff's penny a gallon gasoline tax boost.

The Democratic minority, following Sen. William J. Lane (D) Washington, threatened to wield a constitutional club, which would require all bills to be read at length, unless GOP leaders scheduled a public hearing on the controversial proposal.

The outcome of the Democratic threat hinges on the decision of Senate highways committee chairman John G. Snowden, Lycoming. Snowden said he would announce his decision Monday at 9 a.m. after polling his committee, according to majority leader John M. Walker, Allegheny.

3. A "newly designed guidance system" has been developed for the German V-2 rocket which, together with an American-made rocket called the "Wac Corporal," set new altitude and speed records recently.

4. The Greek national army has received "sufficient military supplies" from the U. S. to gain superiority in number and in fire power over the guerrillas.

5. The U. S. Army is working on "short, medium and long-range anti-aircraft weapons" to shoot down supersonic planes and missiles.

Expand 'Intelligence'
Royall said that espionage and counter-intelligence activities of the Army, Navy, Air Force and central intelligence agency already have been expanded since the war because of the increased importance of intelligence and capabilities of potentially hostile foreign governments.

Royall also said he believes a 900,000-man army is essential for peacetime protection of the United States and occupied areas.

President Truman's fifteen billion dollar ceiling on the defense budget for fiscal 1950 would allow the Army only 677,000 men.

one of the eight "overt acts" of treason submitted to the jury, "Sally" faces a sentence ranging from five years in prison to death in the electric chair. There is little likelihood of the death penalty being imposed, however.

In addition, Miss Gillars becomes a woman without a country, since conviction of treason means loss of American citizenship. There is also a $10,000 fine, but it is meaningless, since she has declared herself a pauper.

Judge Curran did not indicate when sentence would be imposed, but Laughlin said he thought it would be done a week from today.

discussions, but that if anyone had any questions, he was to write them down on paper and present them during the afternoon, with a question period following the close of the conference, which lasted until 5:30 o'clock.

Rental Housing under Sections 608 and 207, F.H.A., James J. Gallagher.

Willingsness Shown
All of those who spoke, representing local interests expressed their willingness to cooperate in a program, which would be a sincere effort to produce lower cost housing.

It was pointed out by Mr. Heselbarth that young people who are just starting out in life would have to be impressed with the fact that conditions have changed since the close of the war, and that they would have to be satisfied with a smaller type house, which would meet their minimum requirements, instead of a more expensive type of home.

It is expected that another meeting of local interests will be called in the near future by the Advisory committee to consolidate thought on the matter, and to get the government's program moving in the local district.

The Lawrence County Advisory committee, which was set up under the sponsorship of the Greater New Castle Association, consists of the following persons:
L. B. Round, chairman, president GNCA; Charles H. Johnson Jr., vice chairman; Mayor John F. Haven; Jacob Wachman; Jacob F. Rentz, M. Dale Andrews; Ralph Audino; Ray H. Aylesworth; W. Fillmore Campbell; New Wilmington; Norman E. Clark; Robert A. Eckles; Preston Flaherty; Arthur Graham; John H. Grittle; Postmaster William R. Hanna; Mervin Haynes; Ellwood City; Thomas C. BEAVER, Pa., March 11.—(INS)—Promoters of pyramid clubs were on the run in Beaver county today.

William Coghlan, Beaver county district attorney, denounced the clubs as "fool schemes to milk innocents of their hard-earned dollars."

He said yesterday he would prosecute the promoters because its nothing but "a lottery-racket—and it clearly is illegal."

Shrinking Dollars Are Discussed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright—1949—Publishers Financial Bureau, Incorporated
BABSON PARK, Fla., March 11.
—When I was a boy thrift was considered one of the greatest virtues. At a tender age we were taught to save our money and put it in a toy bank. But I can understand why some well-informed parents hesitate to offer this advice to their children at this time. The money put in the savings bank a few years ago has lost nearly 50 per cent of its purchasing power. Literally billions in purchasing power have been lost by colleges, universities, hospitals, insurance companies and banks owing to shrinkage in what they could buy with the funds they have invested in bonds. I wonder if the day will come when parents will counsel children to convert all surplus funds into land, clothing, jewelry, machinery and certain common stocks?

Threat of Inflation Still Here
Many economists believe that inflation has about run its course. This may be true, but it will be some time before we can rest assured that the likelihood of serious inflation has been eliminated. Current booming production and the stratagems of the money managers in Washington may, for one or two more presidential terms, avert a further sharp rise in prices and hold the value of money about where it is today.

Since, however, the basic cause of inflation will not have been eradicated, the threat of inflation will remain constant and vivid. It may well gradually influence millions of people to shun the savings banks and high-grade bonds, including governments. Such a retardation of the accumulation of capital could become a serious affair.

Cost of War
The greatest single factor in bringing about the recent inflation has been the terrific national debt incurred to meet the cost of war. It is the prospective mountainous cost of preparations for the next war that renders it impossible to bring inflation to a positive halt at this time. No one can tell how many more billions our armament race with Russia may eventually cost.

Prior to 1940 the United States spent in peace time relatively little on its armed forces. The British navy, enforcing the "Pax Britannica" for the past couple of centuries, made it possible for us to thrive as a nation without spending much on national defense. We have been able to spend U. S. funds on developing farms and factories, building homes and educating our people.

What We Parents Should Do
But Great Britain has been forced by circumstances to transfer to us the unpleasant duty of policing the world. We must now take on the headaches and frightful expense of maintaining international order, even though we have the help of the United Nations. Will the cost of our new and fateful responsibility dangerously dissipate our capital and destroy the value of our currency? I hope not, but there are no guarantees—particularly in the age of the atomic bomb.

Hence, as my friend Tom Williams of Asheville, N. C., is constantly preaching, we parents should spend more time in teaching our children to develop character as well as to save money. Here are a few of his suggestions: (1) Set children an example of honesty. Avoid having our children hear us speak to neighbors as if they were our best friends and then ridiculing or criticizing these same neighbors when they leave our presence. (2) Get the confidence of our children. A recent survey shows that 24 per cent of high school children complain of parental clashes with no respect for their parents' opinions. (3) Along with teaching them to save money we should teach them, by example, the importance of saving health, by ourselves having only good habits.

Other Things To Save
If young people neglect storing up money savings, they should all the more strive to store up knowledge and become experts in some profession or trade. We parents should set them an example of the same praying and listening to God, realizing that in meditation and quietness is power. Of course, our children differ and should be treated differently. It is a part of God's plan to have our children vary in accordance with nature's laws of diversification; but this is one reason why they are our best investments.

Homer V. Miles Navy Enlistee

Chief Machinist's Mate S. E. Bond of the U. S. Navy recruiting station here announced today the enlistment in the Navy of Homer Vernon Miles of 832 Harrison St., and formerly a member of the photography staff of The News.

Miles enlisted in the Navy program whereby an eighteen year old boy may enlist for a period of one year. Miles has been transferred to Great Lakes Naval Training Station for a 12-week recruit training period.

Chief Bond added that although the regular three-year enlistment quota is very small at this time, he may continue to take 18 year old youths who meet the mental and physical requirements of this program.

Former Air Cadets Who Did Not Finish Can Complete Course

Men Whose Air Training Was Cut Short By War's End Can Re-Enlist Now

Former members of the air force whose training was cut short at the end of the war now have an opportunity to complete their education as aviation cadets. Capt. Charles E. Weddle, commanding officer of the New Castle U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting main station, announced today.

Because of their experience, he said, these former servicemen will be exempt from certain phases of the qualifying examinations. However the eligibility requirements are the same as those for other applicants. They must be between the ages of 20 and 26½ years, have two years or more of college education—or the ability to pass an equivalent examination, and have high moral, personal and physical qualifications. Both married and single men are now eligible to apply.

"Thousands of young men were appointed aviation cadets and were in various stages of flight training when the wartime program was terminated," Captain Weddle declared. If any of these men are now living in the New Castle area, and are interested in winning their pilot wings and a commission in the air force, they should contact their nearest recruiting station for an appointment with the aviation cadet examining officer who will be at the New Castle U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting main station on Saturday, March 19, at 10 a. m.

Complete information and application for an appointment with the aviation cadet examining officer may be obtained at the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting main station, Room 400, Frew building, at the recruiting station, Room 202, Post Office building or by telephoning 4745.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Lord Vansittart's demand that Great Britain create a new and more active diplomacy "to cope with our adversary behind the iron curtain" was expected today to arouse a flurry of controversy in England.

The Communists, of course, will accuse him of warring against the extreme right will applaud.

But general public speculation probably will center about just what Vansittart meant when he told the House of Lords that the Czechoslovak embassy in London is a center of smuggling and intrigue while the Hungarian club is "a hotbed of communism."

Vansittart, for many years the guiding hand of Britain's external policies as permanent under-secretary at the foreign office, is a man of very positive ideas and for years he has been stressing the inherent danger of communism to democracies throughout the world.

May Ask About Probe
But the British are likely to ask why he does not probe the home office, Scotland Yard, the British Secret Service and its military counterpart of MI-5 if the infiltration has reached the perilous stage that he suggests.

Diplomatic immunity might make it difficult for any of these agencies to deal with the Czechoslovak embassy, although past precedents show this would be by no means impossible.

But so far as the Hungarian club or any similar non-exempt institution is concerned, there is nothing to prevent British agents from doing all the investigating they desire and the probability is that they have done so.

It is a strange but traditional truth that the British Secret Service likes to have itself belittled, particularly by persons in high places. There is no surer manner of instilling self-confidence in a real or potential enemy and it is that false feeling that inevitably leads to the fatal misstep.

During the war, it appeared that British spokesmen actually went out of their way to deplore the deficiencies of MI-5 but all the facts indicate that this was done for a definite purpose.

Under-Cover Work
The cases of brilliant undercover wartime work are numerous. Official Nazi documents seized after the defeat of Germany state definitely that Britons planted the bomb in a Munich beer-cellar in November, 1941, which would have killed him while the war was still young except for the fact he cut short his scheduled speech and left the rostrum 10 minutes before it went off.

It has been proved that Royal Air Force planes bombed a French channel port on a certain night because the command learned that the entire German officer corps in the area was enjoying a gala party in the casino that evening.

MI-5 found out just what house the Gestapo was using in Oslo during the occupation and sent low it went off.

Following these outbursts, which follow a Moscow pattern, British Reds verbally followed the line of the French and Italian Red leaders, although they were a little more cautious. The General Secretary of the British Communist Party stated in their Daily Worker that "if provocateurs ask us what we will do in the event of an imperialist aggressive war against the U. S. S. R. we will reply in the same way as Ernest Bevin in 1920—organize strikes and councils of action to prevent that war from being carried through."

Reds in the Russian-occupied zones of Germany re-echoed the cry. Otto Grotewahl, German Red leader, praised Thorez and Togliatti, the French and Italian Communist bosses, and declared "we do not care to become cannon fodder for world power dreams of imperialist states."

While it is evident that these bombastic statements of Communist leaders at this time are merely another battle in the war of nerves, directed from the Kremlin, they should not be taken lightly. In case Russia decided to "move in" and occupy all of Europe we can expect the Reds in Italy, France, Germany, Great Britain and other European countries to do their best to assist the Communist hordes.

Radio networks are on the trail of a breed of American citizen which constitutes a small but vigorous—and unwanted—minority. Studio heads call them quiz trotters.

Network executives argue that this group, which operates in the highly charged atmosphere of the numerous quiz shows, is nongrata because it consists of professionals who are "not interested in the educational and entertainment value of quiz shows, but only have a desire to win valuable prizes."

It is revealed networks are compiling a list of 500 or thereabouts "regulars" who spend their time running from studio to studio, haunting give-away shows, and skimming the cream of the prizes. They are adroit regulation dodgers who will go to any lengths to get on a program.

Studios will use these lists to blackball the "pros" and give others a chance at a toaster or washing machine. The implication is that when the studios are barred to the venal characters who are only on the lookout for prizes, audiences will consist only of those people who are seeking education and entertainment. A fair test might be to suspend prizes altogether for a period of time.

The numbers of those who attend quiz shows to satisfy a craving for knowledge would quickly become apparent.

Stalin decrees sweeping price cuts in food, clothing and consumers' goods, according to dispatches from Moscow. Now, if they had the food, clothing and consumers' goods everything would be lovely.

Education: The Way to End Communism, Truman Declares—headline. As long as the "educating" is not master-minded by Communist professors, apparently.

level attack planes over the Norwegian capital to push bombs through doors and windows.

So far as the German "secret weapons" were concerned, there is no doubt that they did great damage. But they never remained secret for long. The damage resulted chiefly from the time it took British ordnance experts to perfect antidotes.

Foreigners Watched
The British pride themselves justly on the liberties that foreigners enjoy upon their shores but there is no disputing the fact that they are watched with the care appropriate to their stations and their intentions.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

The telephone rang.

"Hello, Erich. This is Bill."

Bill is short for Bela Zaboli, the fellow who draws the Popeye comic strip and lives a couple of miles from me.

"Are you doing anything this evening?" he went on.

"Nothing special."

"Fine. Want to make $2048?"

"Do I want to make $2048?" I echoed. "I'd be interested in making $48 or even $4.80."

"All right," he said. "I'll be over at your house around eight and you come along with me to the Joneses' house (name fictitious). There will be several other people and each of us puts up a dollar. We'll get coffee and doughnuts and have a lot of fun. It's something new. It's called the "Wait a minute," I interrupted. "It's called the Pyramid Friendship Club, isn't it?"

"Yes, how do you know?"

"Because," I explained, "I just got through talking to the district attorney about it and he explained the whole business to me. It's the biggest sucker game in the world and I'll bet you fifty or five hundred to one that neither you nor anybody else will ever get $2048 or $20.48 out of it."

However, Bill accepted my invitation to come over anyway and to let me explain the whole sucker game to him.

Undoubtedly this Pyramid Friendship club thing has come to your community by now and I hope that you haven't fallen for the most colossal hoax since the old chain letter game ran its course.

As I told Bill, I queried the district attorney about it, because there has been a lot of talk about prosecuting the originators of the scheme in our community.

The D. A. told me frankly that it would be difficult to convict anybody under the lottery law or any other code that he knew of.

They had tried to get convictions in Hollywood and other cities, he told me, but they had not had much luck.

Unfortunately, as he said, there is no anti-sucker law and nobody has yet been put in jail simply for being a d-n fool.

I couldn't explain the racket to you if I tried. I had it explained to me with diagrams, with mathematics and what not. I don't get it yet.

But I do know this: They tell you that you can make $2048 in a few weeks in this racket.

Actually, if 12,000 people in your community went in on it, only six members would get paid off after attending some 250 meetings. The other 11,994 would get plenty of coffee and doughnuts, but they wouldn't get more than just a few dollars out of the Pyramid Friendship club.

If you want to be a sucker or have no other way to meet people, by all means join your Pyramid Friendship club.

I am sure the authorities won't be able to put you in jail. Notwithstanding all the laws in the world, no authority on earth has yet been able to go away with two human instincts—gambling and sex.

From Me To You

By MESECALL

New Wilmington, Pa.
March 6th, 1949MeseCALL.
New Castle News.

Dear Sir:

James Russell Lowell once said, when asked why he wrote that "Stuff" the question of common sense is always: "What is it good for?"—a question which would abolish the rose, and be triumphantly answered by the cabbage.

In your column of Saturday, March 5th, you seemed to be sitting on the fence as far as trying to please your readers was concerned. I refer to the question of their liking, or not liking poetry. It reminded me of Pat and Mike.

Pat and Mike were taking a walk one beautiful Spring day. Pat was patiently trudging along down the middle of muddy country road, sidestepping the worst part of the puddles, and cautiously stepping over them. Mike was swinging along on the other side of a fence where the walking was good and the grass was green.

After a time, Mike asked Pat, "Do you see that little white cloud sailing alone up there?"

Pat shook the crusted mud off one foot and then the other, and without lifting his head answered, "No, Mike. I have all I can do to watch where I am going—can't go watchin' little white clouds sailin' along, or I'd get in mud over my head."

So Mike walked on watching the little white cloud, and Pat kept on trudging through the mud.

A poet, like a politician, thrives on criticism, for it only adds fuel to a fire already burning bright—so let 'em talk, they might say something. It has also been said that: You will find poetry nowhere, unless you bring some with you.—Joubert.

News is news, and poetry is poetry, and never the twain shall meet—with favor in all readers eyes, but I often wonder what the people, LIKE PAT, think about in their spare time. . . . See what the people who do not like poetry miss—the great poetical books of the Bible, the poems set to music and sung all over the world, the poetry of love, nature, art, and thousands of things in our everyday world. . . . what more do our critics want?

Sincerely,
Cecelia Allen Whitman

Washington Calling

One Hoover Report Held Back

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Hoover commission has released one after another of its monumental reports analyzing the departments that make up the colossus of the federal government. In these thousands upon thousands of words is a chart for reshaping the government along more efficient and economical lines.

But one report has been held back thus far. It is so charged with controversy that it has torn the commission apart. And what is more, its release may carry the controversy into Congress and thereby perhaps undermine much of the great potential good inherent in the Hoover commission reports.

The report that has stirred so much feeling deals with revolving funds and business enterprises of the government. The section in the report that is stirring such sharp differences concerns the federal development of public power.

Firm Prepared Report
The commission originally hired the firm of Haskins & Sells to prepare a task force report on public power, and particularly on the Haskins & Sells is a highly respected firm of public accountants auditing some of the largest private utility firms in the country.

Their point of view is naturally that of private utility operation. The recommendations contained in their task force report were for the most part directly opposed to the tenets of public power developments as represented in TVA and such great western dams as Bonneville and Grand Coulee.

Their report recommended that "wherever feasible power produced at government-owned hydroelectric projects be sold at the bus bar." This would mean that power produced by the government at very low cost would be turned over at the dam for transmission and sale by private utilities.

Along with this went a recommendation that "the rates for the sale of electric energy generated at government-owned hydroelectric projects be not considered as a 'yardstick' for comparison with the rates charged by private industry."

The Haskins & Sells report also proposed "that consideration be given to abolishing the reclamation fund. The fund, originating out of the sale of public lands, is one of the sources of money for irrigation projects constructed by the Bureau of Reclamation."

Both in the Haskins & Sells report and in another task force report limited to water resources projects, prepared by A. B. Roberts, a Cleveland, O., consulting engineer, there are thinly disguised attacks on the public power concept. It is proposed that TVA be forbidden to build any steam power plants which is directly contrary to the vote in the House the other day approving construction of the new Johnsonville steam plant.

Fear Political Row
Chairman Hoover proposed that many of these recommendations be contained in the commission's final report. This brought immediate protests from those who insisted that up to this point commission recommendation had carefully avoided political controversy.

But the real outburst came forthright Senator George Aiken (R., Vt.). Like most congressional members of the commission, who carry a half-dozen jobs, Aiken had not got around to reading the task force reports.

After a long and bitter argument a tentative compromise was agreed to. The commissioners were to be free to make their own individual recommendations which may or may not ignore the task force reports.

Aiken, long a believer in public power and one of the chief advocates of the great St. Lawrence Waterway project, has written a vigorous brief for public power development, assailing the conclusion of the task force reports. Hoover joined by several of the commissioners, supports many of the anti-public power recommendations, including the stipulation that government power should be sold at the bus bar.

While there may be last-minute shifts in this lineup, the controversy is to be deeply regretted. Here was an opportunity to give the public a calm, unprejudiced survey of public power. That opportunity appears to have been lost.

CHILDHOOD CARES

It's chicken pox or measles or trouble with the ears. Or some mishap of children, with its attendant fears. These follow one another, as parents all deplore. To keep them watching, praying, to see a smile come more.

The doctor says: "It's nothing for you to fret about. But while the fever's running just keep the playmates out. I'm sure 'twill soon be over." But words like that are vain. The mother's bound to worry, till the smiles return again.

These cares are part of childhood. The fevers come and go. Such ills seem necessary, but why we'll never know. But when the fever's broken and ended is the pain. There comes that glorious moment when smiles are seen again.

Washington Observations

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—Churchmen, diplomats and other American spokesmen have denounced the Iron Curtain trials of Christian clerics, but government lawyers mingle professional curiosity with their personal distaste for these doings in Hungary and Bulgaria. A government lawyer-prosecutor lately gave your correspondent some legalistic sidelights. He said that:

In Communist countries, as in America, the role of public prosecutor is often a stepping stone to higher office. The present Governor of New York and several justices of the Supreme Court began that way. So did Andrei Vishinsky, the hollering Soviet diplomat, whose big case was the Moscow treason trials of eleven years ago. Marked, therefore, for U. S. observation is Dimitter Georgiev, prosecutor of the cases against the 15 Protestant ministers in Sofia, Bulgaria. His next post in the Soviet world may be a tip-off to future developments.

But Georgiev's success in court is no indication of his legal ability or brain-power. Only the easy cases come to trial in Communist countries. Tough cases are filed away in concentration camps. Georgiev is being tested for other abilities. As a servant of the Iron Curtain state, he must produce not only convicts—but converts. The accused who come under his tender mercies must be made to confess both their guilt and their repentance, their converted or restored faith in Communism. Thus the Communist prosecutor must be something more than a lawyer. He must be a missionary in the Soviet sense of the term.

Senator Tydings, the thin man from Maryland, is up again with his pet scheme to balance the Federal budget. For the eighth straight session, he is submitting a resolution under which Congress, with certain exceptions, could not appropriate more funds than the Treasury acquires from taxation. This would automatically put an end to borrowing. If the resolution (which would require a constitutional amendment) were translated into law, the allotment to every government agency would be cut by a fixed percentage. Tydings says that the agencies would get along just as well, but some of the bureau chiefs disagree with him. They say that percentage cuts would not hurt the front office set-ups, but would certainly incapacitate some of the sub-sections. Usually it is these sub-sections of the big departments and bureaus which really serve the tax-paying public.

Louis Johnson, newly designated Defense Secretary, will make things tough for writers who like to do subtle character studies of government officials. Johnson—big, broad and belligerent—is about as subtle as a Sherman tank. He is best explained by vital statistics and performance figures. A former heavyweight boxing champion of the Southern Conference, he will make that sort of Secretary—rough, tough and two-fisted. As a top-kick in the American Legion, his patriotic indignations ran the spectrum from pink to Red, and he will be that sort of public official. Nothing less than 100 per cent Americanism will be tolerated within his domain. The only understatement in his record is contained in the name of his law-firm—Steeptoe & Johnson. He won't step on any toes. If he treads at all, he'll trample. This may be just what is needed in the Defense Services where too much tip-toe politics is still being played. And while he is not a man to be crossed, Johnson has a faculty for keeping friends and commanding admiration in subordinates. Contrary to current reports, he did not raise $1.5 million in Democratic campaign funds merely by soaking rich legal clients. So many contributions came in from modest-income people that workers in the Johnson office were convinced of a Truman victory long before election day. If your correspondent had listened to them, he might not have picked Dewey to win.

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has made his maiden speech, but—to my observation at least—has yet to crack his maiden smile. In introducing the Missouri Valley Authority bill, he went at his work with the earnestness of the grim reaper. This was understandable while he verbally lambasted his arch-villains, the power lobbyists. But Humphrey maintained the same glum solemnity when yielding to complimentary and helpful remarks by other MVA-minded Senators.

Another freshman, Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, is in jolly contrast to the jut-jawed Minnesotan. The junior Kingfish, plump-faced and curly-haired, roams the Senate floor making friends on both sides of the aisle. As the champion of filibuster an the foe of civil rights, he smiles on everybody who smiles back.

Second Week Contest Report

Latest Standing Of Churches In Pre-Easter Campaign Is Announced

First United Brethren of Group B and First Pentecostal of Group D continued to hold first place in their respective divisions for the second week of the pre-Easter Sunday school and church attendance contest.

Bessemer Mission Covenant has surpassed Edenburg Methodist in Group A, for churches under 100 members. Mt. Jackson United Presbyterian assumed the leadership in Group C by amassing the largest point total made by any church in all four groups last week, 299.

Very close races seem to be in the offing and if there is pleasant weather Sunday, many of the churches will be able to show substantial gain.

Reports at end of second week are:

GROUP A—100 Members Or Less

	Total Points
Bessemer Mission Covenant	538
Bessemer Assembly of God	532
Hillsville Methodist	526

Radars Aids Police To Get Speeders

COLUMBUS, O., (INS)—The traditional chase of cops after speeding motorists may soon be a thing of the past—thanks to radar.

Already, Columbus, O., police are able to catch speeders without even putting their patrol cars in gear. It's all done with the aid of radar speed meters which previously were used only to clock motorists in high-speed areas.

The Columbus radar unit consists of three cars—two equipped with three way-radios, and one with radar equipment. A pick-up box is attached to the rear of the radar car which is stationed within the marked speed control zone. The other car is parked on the same street several blocks ahead of the radar-equipped automobile.

Officer Reads Meter

When a speeder enters the control zone, the officer with the radar unit reads the meter and transmits the license number and speed to the police car ahead via radio. The officer from the second car is able to flag down the speeder and either warn him about speeding or issue a summons.

This plan is workable only during the daylight hours when license numbers can be distinguished. However, plans are underway to install the equipment in a car operated by two men who will give chase after obtaining a reading that shows the motorist is speeding.

Hadassah Donor Will Be March 27

Rev. John Stanley Grauel To Be
Speaker At Dinner-Program
At The Castleton

REV. JOHN S. GRAUEL

At the board of directors meeting of the New Castle Chapter of Hadassah held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Gus Slovinsky on Meyer avenue, all plans will be completed for the much awaited annual event, the Hadassah Donor dinner, which will take place at the Castleton Hotel, Sunday evening, March 27.

Mrs. Irving Nixon, chairman is proud to announce for this occasion, a musical program replete with artistic talent, featuring Louis Dreeben of Uniontown, Pa., who is known throughout this area for his beautiful rendition of Hebrew and Palestinian songs. This is to be his initial appearance in New Castle.

Highlighting the evening's program will be Reverend John Stanley Grauel, and active member of the American Christian Palestine Committee. Reverend Grauel, an entertaining speaker of fine appearance and dynamic personality has ably championed Israel's cause and has been most enthusiastically received on every platform.

The donor committee of Hadassah has worked tirelessly to meet its quota for the health needs of the tens of thousands of homeless Jews clamoring to enter Israel's gates. The donor proceeds will go to Hadassah's program of expanded health services including the proposed new hospital in the Negev (the southland) as well as two new tuberculosis hospitals in the north. Check the date, Sunday, March 27, for the Hadassah Freedom Donor Dinner and make reservations now with Mrs. Julius Markley, chairman.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, March 11—(INS)—Baer, once known as the clown prince of boxing, is making a comeback. In the movies, that is. We watched Maxie work in the first scene on the opening day of shooting "Love Is Big Business" at the RKO film factory. And we're pleased to report that the big lug is the same as ever, only more so. Baer, the former heavyweight box-fighting champ of the world, is portraying a wrestler in the flicker. When he walked onto the sound stage, Claudette Colbert and Robert Young were parked in ringside seats at a grunt-and-groan contest. Familiar Sight Max, stretched out on the ring mat waiting for a final adjustment of lights, was taking a terrific ribbing from Claudette and Young. The former fighter toyed with a wilted orchid Miss Colbert had tossed to him. Young called up to Baer: "Except for the orchid, I've seen you in that position many times. In fact," said Young, "I was among those present one night when a fellow named Joe Louis made you kiss the canvas." Maxie retorted: "Yeah, but every time you saw me like this you will remember that I made sure my face was in the camera, just like it is now." What No Oscars The Livermore butcher boy, as he was tabbed during his heyday as a heavyweight hotshot, doesn't work much as an actor. Back in 1934 he starred in a thing called "The Prizefighter and the Lady." It didn't cop any academy awards, but it did afford Maxie a chance to follow a screen career. He said the movies weren't for him, and he recalled today: "I was an irresponsible kid then." Lacked Killer Instinct While Director Bill Russell was giving Max some final instruc-

FALLS CITY, Neb.—(INS)—A veteran of World War I, who has been confined in a mental hospital 26 years, has a 40 thousand dollar estate which has grown from an original $630. Richardson county court records show the 47-year-old veteran, now in a government hospital at Knoxville, Ia., owns $20,600 in government bonds, has $1,600 in the bank and owns a 157-acre farm near Verdon, Neb., which is worth at least $100 an acre. His income last year was $3,831, including the $57.50 a month from his government insurance. His $100 a month compensation was cut off by the government long ago, however. VA officials said no veterans of World War II would be able to do the same thing, since a regulation now stops compensation after $1,500 is accumulated and resumes it when the money is exhausted. Gridiron Show Plans Develop

Legislative Correspondents
Are Planning For State
Event On April 5

OTHER NEWS OF
STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG, March 11—(INS)—The tenor of the biennial dinner and gridiron show of the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association April 5 is disclosed in a resolution to be introduced this week in the General Assembly. In effect, it is an invitation to lawmakers, lobbyists and employees of the assembly to attend what has been branded "Big Red's round-up". The reference is to Governor Duff and his never-ending battle to assure adoption of a controversial legislative program. In the resolution, it is stated that 1949 is the year "when big Red is trying to round up everything and everybody" and that Republicans and Democrats find it difficult to stay "out of the corral". Another part of the resolution, addressed to the "General Assembly of Pennsylvania, legislative engineers and others", also asserts that it's about time somebody rode herd on the "bar-thing boys". Ten dollar "chuck wagon permits", the resolution pointedly observes, must be obtained from the association. Morris Swartz, newsroom supervisor, will be the "strawboss" with control of the tickets and a firm grasp on the till.

The distinguished-looking Republican Senator George N. Wade of Cumberland turned messenger boy to deliver his statements attacking the tax proposals of Governor Duff. Wade personally delivered his dynamite-laden statement to press associations and the Harrisburg Evening News and deposited copies with Western Union for filing to out-of-town papers. Governor Duff was not long in replying. From his office at the state capitol, a four-page reply was rushed to the newsroom in three trips by two state troopers on duty in the governor's office over the week end.

Spring is just around the corner as far as the department of property and supplies is concerned. It is preparing to stake out for the spring and summer newly-painted benches in the park surrounding the state capitol. The job is the usual harbinger that winter is over. The next task will be to get the rolling lawns into shape.

Special motor license plates are again in evidence, but the state revenue department insists they are coincidence. Some carry the automobile owner's initials while others have a special series of numbers. The practice of issuing special plates was banned during the Earle administration but in recent years the policy has been relaxed. At one time, someone in the bureau of motor vehicles has a list of special plates to be handed out to employees. Many owners held the same number after each annual license issue.

Governor Duff will receive the Pennsylvania Forestry Association's conservation award March 11 at Harrisburg "in recognition of his outstanding leadership in the field of conservation." Much of Duff's legislative program is under attack in the General Assembly, some of it going on undercover, but of all the proposals, his conservation recommendations have not been assailed.

When Governor Duff took on Richardson Dilworth, defeated for mayor of Philadelphia in 1947, and labeled him a "gabble gut" he was battling in a fast league. Dilworth, one of the most eminent legal lawyers in the legal profession, described Duff as a "gum beater" and said he posed as a "sort of rugged, buckskin-clad Indian-fighting pioneer, just because he hails from the wide open spaces of suburban Pittsburgh."

Britain Expects More Tourists
LONDON—(INS)—More than 130,000 American tourists are expected to spend $63,000,000 in Britain this year.
Last year about 100,000 visiting Americans left $50,000,000 behind them. Average stay was 13 days compared to the figure of five days before the war.
Six Alexander Maxwell, British Tourist and Holiday board chairman, estimates that the total number of foreign visitors in 1949 would top the 560,000 mark and the total earnings would be in the neighborhood of 150,000,000 sterling ($200,000,000). This compares with 500,000 visitors and earnings estimated at 40 to 45 million sterling ($160,000,000-$180,000,000) last year.

Atom Study Used Radar Techniques

NEW YORK—(INS)—War-developed radar techniques, converted from their task of detecting enemy planes, have been brought indoors to unearth new facts on the structure and behavior of atoms and molecules.
Dr. Donald K. Coles, physicist at the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, Pittsburgh, Pa., explains that science's latest attack on the inner sanctum of matter was made possible by "beaming" ultra-short radar waves through gas molecules and "tuning in" on the vibrations of individual atoms. "In this way," the scientist declared, "we are able to reveal important new facts on the position of atoms and their chemical and electrical behavior. So precise are the new techniques that we are able to determine the actual spacing between atoms in a molecule to within a million-millionth of an inch.

"Such information is not only vital to our understanding of the structure of matter," he added, "but is also of practical value to the chemist analyzing plastics and other synthetic materials."

IN THE OPEN

The March wind hustled its way through the bottomlands, rattling the dry reeds edging the slough, and sending the brown leaves into the swirling dervish dances where the woodlands lay open to its approach. I pulled up in the lee of a great boulder and thrilled to the majestic music of the bustling gusts as they played out the chord sequence familiar to all countrymen who walk the timber trails. An awesome assortment of banshee wails moaned all about me as lofty branches scraped together in awkward wind driven fiddling.

For nearly two days the wind had blown steadily, drying out country roadways and nudging small boys along to the kite store. There was no chill threat in its teeth; only the warm promise of gentle Spring rains somewhere close behind that bombastic advance guard. Even my old felt hat became bemused by its blandishments and took off on a whirling quest, to land perilously near a broad mud puddle in the roadway.

Keeps Eye on New Moon
During the forepart of the night I watched the new moon ride like a plunging boat through the driving waves of broken cloud mass hurtling across the sky. The steersman held steady course through those rough seas. As I watched a killdeer complained overhead, crying his lonesomeness into the darkness.

The Big Dipper road upside down in the northern sky. I traced out the handle and greeted the amber Arcturus, flashing on and off in the northeast through the breaks in the clouds. Arcturus is the Spring-Bringer, known to many as the "plowman's" star. Its appearance in the March heavens marks the time land is turned again and its passing in November marks the end of the plowman's time.

Noted Emerald Patches

I rode along through the wind-swept countryside, noting emerald patches on the hillsides where the spring runs seeped through the sod. Heavy stands of wheat lay like great green squares in the lowlands. Bluebirds flew up from the fence posts ahead, and once I saw a long tailed hawk swoop low across the roadway as he patrolled for meadow mice.

I tramped a mile or so through some open woodland. The persistent wind had ruined the day for bird work and I encountered little activity in the feathered line. A gray squirrel scampered along the remains of a stake and rider fence, and a large garter snake lay atop some sedge grass in the warm sun by the side of a brook. I stirred him up and he put on a belligerent show before he hid in the grass tussock.

Everywhere the streams were running full, the limpid water sparkling in the sunlight as it raced out to join forces with other spring-fed rills and trace the time worn course to the broad valley below. I followed one of these swollen brooks through an open draw in the woods. Water striders skated on every eddy. Finally the brook "gave out" in the crumbling remains of a log spring house, built there many years ago.

Hides from Wind

I wandered out of the woods, crossing a high ridge, and came upon a lone haystack which commanded a view of the surrounding fields. Here was an ideal spot to hide from the wind and watch for a chance fox below. I burrowed into the side of the stack and spent a cozy half hour, drowsing peacefully while the rest of the world worried over the latest portentous news from the four corners of the globe.

Nary a fox came by to entertain me. I finally dragged myself from that delightful loafing place and moseyed back across the hills to the waiting car. The dangling catkins in a clump of hazelnut shrubs attracted my attention and I found a handful of the meaty filberts which had persisted through the Winter. The kernels were sweet and tasty.

This is supposedly the month of the March hare. I did my best to kick out a bunny so that I could see how this maddening crowd performs. During the day I blundered close by the "forms" of three rabbits. Aside from the fact that they ran like mad they all appeared to be normal, law abiding cottontails. Shortly after nightfall I was back again in my home valley. The promise of the driving breeze seemed even closer and soon the flicker of lightning winked across the hills. Later the wind blew itself off elsewhere and the gentle rain fell softly through the March night.

Committee To Launch Inquiry Of Draft Law

House Committee Launches Inquiry Into Administration Of Draft Law

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Chairman Vinson (D Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee said today that the committee is launching immediately an "inquiry" into administration of the draft law.

At the same time, Vinson officially announced that Congress, despite President Truman's request for universal military training, will not enact such legislation this year.

The committee chairman also declared that in accordance with the President's instructions the army will be required to reduce its strength by 42,000 men by next June 30.

Vinson explained that the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 provides funds for an army of 667,000. Present strength is 709,000.

The Georgian said the purpose of the committee's inquiry into the Selective Service system is to determine "what the draft has accomplished and to obtain a general picture of the situation."

He added that Maj. Gen. Lewis Hershey, Selective Service director, will be called to testify.

Charge Capone Groups Control Machine Racket

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 11.—(INS)—Gov. Earl Warren's crime commission today charged that "Murder, Inc." and Frank Costello of New York, and the Capone syndicate of Chicago, control California's slot machine racket.

The commission, in another lengthy progress report to Warren and the California legislature also charged that the Capone group controls organized horse-race bookmaking throughout the nation.

And because of these sinister ramifications, dangers of corruption in government, menace of other forms of crime and violence, which it listed, the commission wound up its 58-page report with an urgent plea to the legislature to enact an anti-slot-machine law that will "wipe out the growing evil."

Seminarians and Priests have been digging graves at Calvary cemetery under Cardinal Spellman's direction.

The prelate, in thus dramatically calling attention to the long work-stoppage, said the more than 1,000 bodies awaiting burial had to be interred, regardless of anything else.

The strike settlement announcement was made at the Chancery office of the New York Archdiocese and was supplemented by a statement from David Sullivan, International vice-president of the AFL Building Service Employees union.

Red Cross Women Serve Community In Motor Corps

Volunteer Workers Supply Transportation To Children, Veterans And Blood Donors

During the Red Cross campaign, a special group of volunteer Red Cross workers is kept especially busy serving as messengers and arteries of communication for bringing in money and distributing supplies. This group is known as Motor Corps and they are most often identified in a gray uniform, behind the wheel of a station wagon, doing their bit to help make the community a better place in which to live.

However these ladies are busy all year round and not just at fund campaign time. A "normal" day may be full of lots of unexpected experiences.

Help Children
A Red Cross Motor Corps volunteer must be an early riser on her day to drive. She must get her own family on their way, get the Red Cross car and report to one of the local schools by 9:00 a.m. From there she will transport a group of children to the school dental clinic, cheerfully allay some childish fears or worries concerning this trip to the dentist, and agree to be back for them at 11:15. In this morning interval she will take a Home Service visitor out on calls to any spot in Lawrence county. Many a muddy lane or farm yard have challenged the skill of these drivers.

The afternoons of the week are devoted to the Blood Donor service. Donors are provided with transportation to and from the hospital, and each Wednesday afternoon the Blood Bank technician and equipment are taken to Ellwood City where the blood donors go to the Ellwood City hospital. These trips are the routine work of the Motor Corps. They are subject to emergency call at all times. Hurried trips to transport a stricken veteran to Deshon or Aspinwall hospitals are quite common.

Serve Veterans
During baseball season, disabled veterans from Deshon hospital were taken to 23 baseball games in Pittsburgh. The enthusiasm of these hospitalized veterans, and their excitement over the games is one of the most gratifying assignments.

The Red Cross car and drivers also take children to Cleveland to a hard-of-hearing clinic and to Pittsburgh to various clinics at the request of local agencies or service organizations. In the past year the chapter owned vehicle has been driven over 7500 miles without an accident and the volunteer drivers have served over 1200 hours.

The motor corps is one of many services that the Red Cross makes available to the community.

FRENCH TOLD TO

SUPPORT SELVES

PARIS—(INS)—Frenchmen have a warning from former Premier Paul Reynaud that they are facing a "catastrophe worse than in 1940" if they fail to make their country self-supporting before Marshall Plan aid ends in 1952.

Reynaud has devoted many years to warning Frenchmen of the perils confronting them. Back in 1935 he began warning his countrymen of the need of an independent armored army.

Recently he has given repeated warnings of the necessity of increasing French production and cutting prices to enable exporters to compete on world markets.

In his latest pronouncement Reynaud, who considers France a power of "medium world importance," called attention to the "colossal success" of communism at present in China.

He said, however, that he does not think this will bring an early showdown between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"The atom bomb in American hands," he said, "is an absolute guarantee against any possibility of an early war between the two giants."

LUNCHING WITH MARRIED EMPLOYER

"In my position of office manager, it is frequently necessary for me to go to lunch with my employer. My aunt, with whom I make my home, thinks that I make a mistake in doing so, since he is married. Please give your views on this subject."

Answer: Again, it is the motive more than the gesture itself that decides guilt or innocence. There is no stock answer to this question. It all depends upon the circumstances. If the lunch is to be merely a tete-a-tete social occasion, it is better to persistently beg off with an excuse. However, many women in important executive positions find it necessary to lunch and dine with their male co-workers and as office manager I should think you would sometimes have to do so, as luncheon-conferences have lately become a feature of office routine. To refuse would give you the reputation of being a prude and a very suspicious person indeed! Many executives are so busy that they can spare time only when they eat. And many omit meals for fear of losing contacts.

You know the circumstances and you know your employer. If his intentions are honorable and businesslike, then it is your duty as his assistant to attend all business meetings where your presence is required, whether they are combined with lunch or dinner.

Question: I know it is never correct to address an invitation to a man and omit his wife's name. When I don't know the husband, is it permissible to send a wedding invitation to the wife only?

Answer: A wedding invitation should be addressed to both husband and wife whether you know both or only one.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

Elderly Farmers Expected To Quit

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(INS)—Pennsylvania State college experts predict that, as soon as the unusual pressure of increased agricultural production lifts, many elderly farmers will retire and put the farm in the hands of sons.

Earle L. Moffitt and Monroe J. Armes said the younger generation has the inclination, experience and ability to carry on in the family tradition.

They predict farm boys will try to outstrip their dad's achievements and in many cases they will do it. The farmer who takes over in this day and age has the benefit of modern research and science at his disposal that his father did not have. One big attraction expected to keep the boys on the farm is the advance of farm machinery.

But young farmers were warned to operate their farms in a business-like fashion since farming today is a highly competitive business.

Big Audience Hears Address On India

Col. J. W. Hughes, British Statesman Makes Interesting Address On India

There was a large audience at the First Congregational church, Wednesday evening, to hear an address by Col. John Williams Hughes, British statesman and traveler, who is on a lecture tour of this country. In answer to a question upon the outlook of Communism in India, Mr. Hughes stated that the Communists had lost their golden opportunity in India, Britain having beat them to the punch, by granting independence to that country. He paid high tribute to the present national leader of India, Russia had been seeking to stir up civil strife in India, before the granting of independence.

The appointment of Lord Mountbatten, cousin to King George, to serve on the commission, to iron out the political problems arising out of the granting of independence, was a strategic move on the part of prime minister Atlee, upon which the people of India looked with great favor, impressed with the fact that the king's cousin had come to talk with them on their problems.

Mr. Hughes also paid splendid tribute to the late Mahatma Gandhi, and the contribution he had made to the peaceful solution of the Indian question. At one point, the Hindus and Mahomedans had erected a ten foot barricade between them, and had made preparations for war, and Mr. Hughes could see nothing to avert a conflict, but Gandhi. The latter heard of the situation, came and climbed over the barricade to the Moslems, and in less than three days peace prevailed between the conflicting parties. Tribute was also paid to the missionaries of all denominations, and closed with the note that "Christ Was The Only Hope Of India."

Rev. Gwynn D. Walters, Youngstown, opened the meeting with prayer. Rev. T. J. Jones, pastor of the Congregational church, presided. Col. Hughes was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Jones. He has left for Louisville, Ky., in his English Bantam Standard auto, with right hand drive, in which he has been travelling throughout the country. He is a native of Llangallo, Anglesea, North Wales, and sails for home on April 15, from New York.

Three Opinions Given By Court

March Term Of Criminal Court To Open Monday
—Case List Light

OTHER EVENTS IN COURT HOUSE

Three opinions have been handed down by the Lawrence Court, two by Judge John G. Lamoree and one by Judge W. Walter Brahm.

The first is in the case of the Storm Windows of Aluminum, Inc., versus David Strutzen and Nate Landau, doing business as the Lawrence Improvement Company. In this opinion and order, a motion for judgment is refused, but objection to the defendant's answer and counter claim is sustained. It concerns a suit in which there is a dispute concerning the quality of merchandise sold. This opinion is merely a step in the settlement of the suit.

Judge Lamoree also ruled on the case of Marion I. Woodward versus the Netherlands Insurance Company. A motion to strike off an answer is refused. This ruling concerns a technicality in the preliminary proceedings of an insurance case in which an out of court agreement between attorneys which the court ruled out.

Judge W. Walter Brahm handed down an order and opinion in the matter of the estate of the late Archibald Reed Mornes. The case was instituted by Mrs. Mornes who claimed she had a pre-nuptial agreement with her husband. This agreement provided that at his death he would leave her all his estate in excess of $6,000. The agreement was a part of the record.

The terms of the will apparently do not follow the agreement and Mrs. Mornes filed exceptions to the Pennsylvania is divided into 50 Senatorial Districts as nearly equal in population as possible. No county is entitled to a representation exceeding one-sixth of the whole number of senators. Under this provision, Philadelphia, however great its population, can elect no more than eight senators, and that is the number now representing it at Harrisburg.

SMALLPOX

History tells us that smallpox has been one of the worst scourges of the human race. It has counted its victims by the millions. Many of them died and the faces of the survivors were terribly scarred or perhaps they were blind.

A few years ago the doctors began the use of vaccination. Those who were vaccinated successfully did not take smallpox.

In the recent war our soldiers were protected from smallpox even in countries where it was prevalent.

In ancient times vaccination would perhaps have been called a miracle. Sometimes we are inclined to forget about its value and become negligent.

In this state children are vaccinated when they start to school. That helps a lot to protect us from smallpox.

Saute a little chipped onion and green pepper in a skillet to mix with slightly beaten eggs; fry in small omelets and serve between slices of whole wheat toast with homemade chili sauce.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Unlovable Children

The late Caroline Zachry, a woman wise in the ways of children, once said, "A child is never so in need of love as when he is unlovable." This is a strange statement, but a very true one.

The whining, nagging youngster, the demanding one, the clinging child, the ten-year-old who acts as though he were three—these are the children that irritate most grown-ups. And these are the kinds of behavior that develop most often when children feel that parents don't love them, or at least not as much as they love brothers and sisters.

It is hard to show affection toward a youngster who irritates us by his behavior. Our first tendency as parents or as teachers is to insist on lovable behavior—or at least behavior that is not irritating—before we give of our attention and affection. It takes a good deal of understanding to show love to an unlovable child. But that is probably the only solution to his problems. It will take time and patience but usually in the long run one can see results. It we can only understand how desperate a child must feel when he thinks he is not loved nor liked, we may be able better to play the role of affection-giving.

Unity Baptists To Dedicate New Organ

Appropriate Services Are Planned For March 20 At Harlansburg Church

Members of Unity Baptist church, Harlansburg, have planned appropriate services for Sunday, March 20, when a new Hammond electric organ will be dedicated. Dedication of the musical instrument will be in honor of men from the congregation who served in World War II.

Dr. W. K. Morgan, Wilkes-Barre, director of cities' work for the Pennsylvania Baptist convention, will conduct the morning service of dedication at 11 o'clock, while in the evening at 8 o'clock W. S. McArdle, representative of Keystone-Hammond Organ Studios, Pittsburgh, will offer a recital.

Purchasing the organ was made possible through contributions of various members of the congregation whose pastor is Rev. Joseph Leichter. The canvass for funds was outstanding as enough money for the project was secured in two weeks' time.

EDENBURG

Mrs. David Robinson and Mrs. James Mullen of Lowellville, Ohio called on Mrs. Albert Wigton and Mrs. Alfred Graham on Thursday. William Spicer of New Castle and Mr. Caruthers of Pittsburgh called on I. M. Hoffmeister Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Ferdie Book visited with Mrs. Louis Appell on Wednesday. Mrs. Howard Sloan and daughter were in New Castle Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray were Youngstown visitors Sunday. A pendulum, to beat one second exactly, must be one-fifth of an inch longer at Spitzbergen than at the equator.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Bill Hall, tireless student of the works of A. Conan Doyle, dismisses as a foul canard the report that Sherlock Holmes once confronted Dr. Watson with the statement, "Ah, my dear Doctor, I see you have donned your long winter underwear."

"Amazing," Watson is supposed to have replied. "How did you deduce that?" "Elementary," explained the peerless Holmes. "You have forgotten to put on your pants."

Looking over all the obituary notices of 1948, an editor in New York discovered that the year's fatalities included Percy Truesdell of Columbus, O., the inventor of the gum drop; George McConnell of Los Angeles, who pitched the first curve in baseball; Isaac Meyers of New York, who persuaded Steve Brodie to jump off the Brooklyn bridge; Richard Hush of New York, who wrote the lyrics of "Sweet Adeline," and Charles Ingersoll of South Orange, who produced the first inexpensive watch (Remember his slogan: "The Watch That Made the Dollar Famous"?). Time indeed marches on!

BALTIMORE—The common cold exists universally in all parts of the world. It occurs among all races and classes of people as well as in every climate belt.

SOME 'COPS' NOW COOK OWN MEALS

Hi-cost of "eatin' out" has caused some day turn policemen to turn cook and dish washer.

Yes, folk, they're dinin' in a squad room in the East street annex, and apparently enjoy their own cooking.

Having been nominated as chef, Carl Lockard a few days ago served spaghetti and meat balls.

He thought so well of his cookin', he invited guests in.

And the "cops" having devoured all he cooked, he prepared another dinner Thursday which satisfied the inner man of policeman.

The police take turns at washing dishes.

Art Houtteman, Detroit Hurler Battling Death

Tiger Pitching Star Suffers Broken Neck And Fractured Skull In Auto Crash

LAKELAND, Fla., March 11.—(INS)—Art Houtteman, Detroit Tiger pitcher, was reported near death in Lakeland, Fla., following an automobile accident this morning.

The 21-year-old Houtteman suffered a broken neck and skull fracture, according to Dr. Edgar T. Watson, the Tiger club physician. Last rites of the Catholic church were administered to the hurler in Morrell Memorial hospital.

Parents Summoned

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houtteman, parents of the promising young pitcher, were flying to Lakeland from their Detroit home.

Three other passengers in Houtteman's car were hospitalized with lesser injuries. They are:

Melvin Alan Knolls, 24, of Air-lawn, N. J., and Arthur Joseph Falls, 23, of Queens Village, N. Y., both students at Florida Southern College, and Jeanette Bradley, 19, of Lakeland.

The accident occurred at a street intersection in Lakeland when a five-ton grapefruit truck ploughed into Houtteman's car.

Returning From Dance

The driver of the truck said he didn't see Houtteman's car in time to avoid the accident. A traffic light at the corner was not operating. The player's car, almost cut in two, was hurled into a lamp post and wreckage was strewn over a wide area.

The quartet was returning from a school dance.

Houtteman was considered a budding big league mound star despite the loss of 16 games against two victories last season. He was to have pitched against the Philadelphia National League team in an exhibition at Clearwater today.

Jameson Staff Meeting-Program

Dr. Paul H. Wilson Presents Program Of Evening At Monthly Session

Jameson Memorial hospital staff conducted their meeting in the hospital solarium Thursday evening with President Dr. Wilbur Flannery in charge.

After a brief business session, Dr. Paul H. Wilson presented a program on "Unusual Stomachs." He reviewed a few cases which occurred in the past few years, and also showed X-rays to prove his case.

At the close, a dainty lunch was served to the group. Thursday, April 14, is the date for the next meeting.

Dobi's Son Defies Regime Of Soviets

GENEVA.—(INS)—A well informed source reports that Hungarian Prime Minister Etienne Dobi is desperately attempting to learn the whereabouts of his politically defiant son.

A refugee friend of Dobi's said the son, Alexander, wrote several months ago that he was fighting in Indo-China with the French Foreign Legion. The letter said:

"At any moment I may be shot down, poisoned or stabbed to death. The bullet, the poison and the knife are provided by the Soviets, the very Soviets for whom you act as servant."

Dobi subsequently is said to have engineered the youth's discharge from the Legion through President Vincent Auriol of France.

However, the boy disappeared en route to Europe and has failed to keep a rendezvous arranged in Paris by his father.

Mystery Package Contained Smokes

PARIS.—(INS)—A young Frenchman, Charles Noth, accused of violating the security of France by turning over information to the United States Office of Strategic Services in 1945, has been acquitted by the Paris military tribunal.

Testimony showed Noth was an orderly of the French military security service at Metz when he was approached by the OSS. His subsequent boasting about the importance of the missions entrusted to him by the Americans brought him under suspicion of the French authorities.

He was followed and arrested in January, 1946, while emerging from the American consulate in Paris with two mysterious packages under his arm.

The packages turned out to be merely two cartons of American cigarettes. This fact established, Noth's acquittal speedily followed.

NEW VEGETABLE DISEASE CONTROL

Vegetable disease control practices resulting from or confirmed by recent research are recommended to growers for use on at least a small portion of their crops. Diseases for which these practices are recommended include:

Damping off—Arasan used for seed and soil treatment has given good results on tomatoes, cucumber, peppers and spinach.

Club root of cabbage—Dipping the roots of cabbage plants at setting time in Fermate mixture (3 pounds to 100 gallons) has increased yields on badly infested soils. Although club root appeared, it often was delayed long enough to permit harvesting the crop.

Anthraxnose of tomato—Zerlate gave best control of anthracnose but copper sprays gave better control of late blight. Addition of stickers made it slightly more effective. Combining Zerlate and fixed copper in the spray tank gave better disease control than where either material was used separately.

Seed treatment—Hot water (122 F. for 5 minutes) still is the best treatment for seed-borne diseases of tomatoes and cabbage.

WOMEN'S CHOICE IN TEXTILE FIBERS

Women like and dislike cotton, rayon, nylon, wool and other textiles for many different reasons. The results of a recent government survey show women like cotton because it looks better than rayon after washing, although some women think there is no difference between the two. The majority think that cotton is easier to wash.

For comfort next to the skin, twice as many women prefer rayon. For coolness in summer-wear, the votes were slightly in favor of cotton, although there was not an outstanding difference.

As to length of wear, cotton fabrics are definitely in the lead. Pulling and fraying at the seams was charged to the rayon fabrics almost entirely.

For house dresses and pajamas, cotton was preferred. Rayon was first choice for short-sleeved blouses, slips and dressy dresses, while nylon was preferred for hose and wool for winter dresses. For summer street dresses, the choice was about even.

In ready-made clothing, the women like cotton for its durability, launderability, and higher degree of color-fastness. They preferred rayon for a dressed-up appearance, attractive color and skin, and comfort next to the skin.

HOMEMAKERS ARE URGED TO BUY ENRICHED BREAD

Many housewives do not realize that the enrichment of bread program is not as yet a law in Pennsylvania. However, enriched bread and flour has become quite commonplace in grocery stores. Therefore, it is necessary to read the label carefully when buying white bread and flour to be sure the family is getting the benefit of these added nutrients.

When flour is milled many natural vitamins and minerals are lost because the outer portion of grain is removed. During the war it was found that inadequate diets were widespread in the nation. So the federal government ordered the enrichment of white bread and flour. This added thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron.

When the war was over the federal order was withdrawn. Many states adopted it as a law and many millers and bakers continue to enrich bread and flour. Many others do not.

Homemakers will be interested to know that on January 31, 1949, a bill was introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature to make the enrichment of bread and flour a law.

It is important to remember that these nutrients are added, and do not replace milk or any other ingredients in bread and flour when they are made. The enrichment program is important to all children and adults.

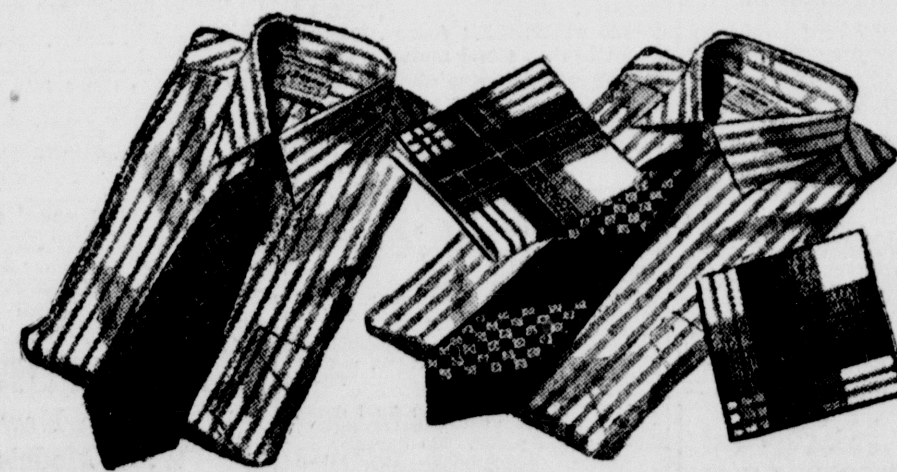

Two Local Seamen On Light Cruiser

Two New Castle men, Anthony Ragnelli, seaman apprentice, USN, of 817 West State St. and Anthony Frasso, seaman apprentice, USN, of 1014 Agnew St., are serving aboard the light cruiser USS Huntington, which took part in amphibious maneuvers against Vieques, an island eight miles east of Puerto Rico.

These largest maneuvers since the end of the war involved 100 ships and 35,000 men, including assault personnel of the Army and Marine Corps.

Strauss Says 20th Century Club Has Charles Tied Up

NEW YORK, March 11.—(INS)—The heavyweight tangle which resulted from Champion Joe Louis' "final" retirement on Tuesday became more involved today.

Sol Strauss, attorney for the 20th Century Sporting Club, returned from a visit with Mike Jacobs at Miami and revealed that his organization has an exclusive written contract binding Ezzard Charles until well into next fall.

Strauss' statement was made to refute reports that the Cincinnati contender had signed to fight for the new organization headed by Louis.

The 20th Century has no contract with Jersey Joe Walcott, whom Louis plans to match with Charles, but does have a verbal agreement with Lee Savold, another of the contenders.

Although Ralph Kiner won't throw anybody out at the plate, he does a good journeyman job in left field and this could be the year he will top Babe Ruth's home run record.

Morella Collegians Win At Hubbard, O.

The Morella Dairy Bar Collegians defeated the Akron Borden Autos 48 to 31 at the Hubbard, Ohio, tourney last night, with Jimmy Abraham having 15 points, and big Ed Halas 13, to be the stars for the Morellas. The Collegians all Westminster stars will play at Hubbard Saturday at 1:45 o'clock in a semi-final game.

Only seven boxers have ever won three titles in 25 years of Intercollegiate Boxing Association tournament competition.

City Recreation Tourney Ended Irish And Sureshots Champs

The city recreation basketball tournament came to a conclusion at the George Washington Junior High school floor last night when the Fighting Irish of the Mahoning division won a breathtaking victory over the Bears of the American division for the junior championship, by the score of 29 to 28.

The Sureshots annexed the senior title in a close fought game with the East Side Wolverines by the score of 28 to 25.

Priscaro Wins Game

In the junior game, the game was nip and tuck the entire way. Priscaro, with 11 points and Masters with 10, were the big guns for the Irish. The game was won in the last second of play when J. Priscaro flipped a desperation shot from the middle of the court successfully, which accounted for the Frank Merriwell finish of the ball game. Branscome, with 13 points, and Williams with 6 points, were the high scorers for the Bears.

The regulation Recreation Board championship basketball emblems were awarded to the Irish. This victory gave the Mahoning division both Midget and Junior championships. A great deal of the credit for these championships can be attributed to the interests of their gym supervisors Charles "Tip" Richards.

Sureshots Win 28 to 25

The last game on the evening's card was also a closely fought contest with the Sureshots finally winning out by the score of 28 to 25. Leslie and Gross were high scorers with nine and seven points respectively. For the Wolverines Snow was high with ten points, and Walfors assisted with eight.

These games ended the 1948-49 Recreation Board Basketball league for this year. The members of the Recreation Board are very much pleased with the results of this year's play and feel that all boys who participate in this league learned some of the skills necessary for playing basketball. In addition to the fundamentals of fair play.

The director wishes to take this opportunity to express to the public and members of the basketball staff his appreciation for the fine cooperation in conducting the league for this year. The following instructors served as supervisors in the various gyms throughout the city where the league play was conducted: Robert Jackson, Joe Sacco, Lyn Irwin, George Binder, Dallas Hartman, "Tip" Richards, William Alexander, William Schmidt and Reese Flannery.

Henrich Fourth Highest Paid Yankee Ball Player

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 11.—Tommy Henrich today is the fourth highest paid ball player in the history of the New York Yankees.

For that you may take the word of Dan Topping, Yankee owner, who should know.

The three who top him are Joe DiMaggio, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

The Yankee policy is never to announce a player's salary. But the boys will talk to their intimate friends, and so today we can tell you the 1949 stipends of DiMaggio and Henrich.

Will Get $45,000

Joe will get $100,000; Tommy will get $45,000, each on a one-year contract. There is no attendance bonus agreement in either case.

Moreover, we can assure you Tommy asked for $50,000 but said he would be glad to settle for from $40,000 to $45,000.

Tommy apparently thinks a little more highly of the Yankee chances this year than DiMaggio. Of course, Joe gave the Yanks a fine chance to win. Tommy was more definite.

Tommy said: "I think the Yanks are a cinch to win."

But it is worth noting that he added a gentle proviso, to wit: "Provided, of course, that everybody plays as they can play, and we run into no accidents."

Red Sox Tough

Tommy thought things over for a minute and then decided that "The Red Sox have a better ball club than the champion Indians, and will be tougher to beat, provided (there's that proviso again) they come up with some pitching."

Tommy thinks the Red Sox are a better balanced ball club than the Indians outside the pitcher's box.

He gave some thought to this point and then said: "You know an injury in just one spot could wreck the Indians."

Will Play Anywhere

Tommy didn't enlarge on this point but it was fairly obvious that he was thinking of the Cleveland Indians infield. For instance, what would happen to the Indians if they were to lose Lou Boudreau?

ALIQUIPPA WHIPS LEECHBURG 62-43

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—(INS)—Aliquippa today held an easy win of 62-43 over Leechburg in the quarter-final play of the WPIAL tournament.

The victory at the Pitt stadium in Pittsburgh last night was the 23rd straight win for the Aliquippa crew, and advanced them to the semi-finals.

They will meet the winner of Friday night's Rankin-South Union game in the semi-final tilt at Pitt stadium on March 15.

Junior Baseball Managers To Meet

Managers of Junior American Legion baseball teams will hold their first meeting of the season at the Legion home on North Jefferson street, Wednesday, March 16.

Stewart A. Jones, who has been appointed chairman of the league by Wesley Mann, said that plans will be formulated for the coming diamond campaign in junior circles and all managers or a representative should plan to attend.

Those interested in fielding team this year and did not participate in the 1948 campaign are welcome at the Wednesday confab.

K. Pulaskis Win Two In Tourney

The K. Pulaskis went to East Liverpool last night for a tournament appearance and won two games — defeating the Monaca Legion 44-33, and then trimmed an East Liverpool team 41-18. Tonight the K. P. will play a quarter-final game and if they win will return for the semi-finals Saturday. Joey Danish is coaching the Pulaskis tourney team.

The K. P. players are asked to meet at the club at 5:30 o'clock to make the trip tonight. Jimmy Jancone, Don Watters and Gray were the big stars last night.

Wagner Wins By TKO Over Fox

Dick Wagner, of the Coast, made it two in a row over Billy Fox, Philadelphia, in the Cleveland Arena last night, winning by a TKO in the sixth round, after being in a lot of trouble himself and near a knockout in the fourth round.

Penn State's new 30,000-seat football stands are expected to be completed for the first game on the 1949 schedule.

Still Pretty Frisky

THOUGH he no longer is an active player, Dick Bartell, Detroit Tigers coach, shows he is still plenty agile. Here he depicts, in the Tigers' Lakeland, Fla., training camp, how he avoided vicious low-hit line drives in his playing days.

Three Games In Tri-County Floor Tourney Tonight

East Brook Vs. Shenango In Feature Game On Bill, First Game At 7 O'clock

The Tri-County basketball tourney will be resumed tonight at Washington high school floor with three games being billed, the first game to start at 7 o'clock.

The opening game tonight will be a consolation game, between Mars and Zelenople. This will be at 7 o'clock.

The 8 o'clock game will find Union high battling the Mercer team in a first-round contest. Union will have its hands full tonight with the powerful Mercer County five.

Shenango Vs. East Brook

The feature game on the card will have the East Brook Eagles battling the Shenango Wildcats in a second-round game. East Brook trimmed Zelenople in the opening round Tuesday—47 to 29, and Shenango bested Mars 53 to 28. These two Section 23 rivals will stage a bitter fight, for victory.

The teams are not using any senior players. All of the boys participating in the tourney will be back in school next year. Over 400 fans turned out the opening night.

Boosters Book Twin City Elks

East Brook Boosters tackle one of their most ambitious assignments of the current game season Saturday night at East Brook when they meet the Twin City Elks.

The visiting Elks have completed a record of 13 and 3 against topnotch opposition this season. Colored stars from the vicinity of Farrell and Sharon comprise the visitors. Included in their lineup is Skip Callahan, All-State high school cager from Farrell.

These boys have been tabbed one of the smoothest ball handling clubs in the Shenango Valley and are sure to please East Brook fans with their colorful play.

A preliminary game gets underway at 7:00 with the main attraction to follow at 8:15.

Morella Big Five To Play Ravenna

The Morella "Big Five" will go to Cortland, Ohio, tonight for a semi-final game in the "A" tourney with the Ravenna Harpers. All of the Morella players are to meet at the Dairy Bar at 6:30 o'clock. The Morella team is the tourney favorites to cop the championship.

Potters, El Fityet And Bessemer Win

Pottery Local 3125 notched another win from B. & O. in a C-I league game at the Y last night. It was the Potters' ball game all the way but the B. & O. lads kept them hustling in the middle periods. Al Christopher hooped in 21 and Ron Johns connected for 16 more for the Potters. Smith in 13 more topped the losers.

In another league tussle, El Fityet came from behind in the last period to nose out Bronze Local 69, 38 to 33. The winners trailed 30-25 going into the final canto but gunned for 13 points while their foes could get only three. Jim Fair was high man with 9 in the well divided scoring for El Fityet. Calvin Guinbaugh and Vince Kelly split 26 for the losers.

In an exhibition the New Castle Legion outpointed the Bessemer Legionaires, 35 to 27. Each team played with only five men. Grubbs tossed in 14 for the winning combination. Rich Baxter and Bill Eroe split 21 for the Gaston Post.

WEST PITTSBURGH TEAM WILL MEET

John T. DeMarco, manager of the West Pittsburgh "Gas House" baseball team, of the City league, has called a meeting for Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Diaz hall for all of last year's players and any others interested in playing this year.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

NOT all persons affiliated with sports are lacking in gratitude. Many instances of topnotch athletes demonstrating it for favors when they were only tyros are known. However, several instances of gratitude were demonstrated a few years ago in this district.

When Tony Zale was a beginner, he asked the late Al Zill, Youngstown promoter, for a fight. Zill gave him his chance. Zale scored a knockout.

After he became champion, Zale communicated with Zill, told him to employ an opponent and Zale would return the favor—at Al's price. Zill staged the Cliff Beckett vs Zale match, and earned a neat profit, owing to Zale's gratitude.

Some years ago the late Zill also befriended Eddie Mead, before Eddie managed Henry Armstrong.

Years later, Mead returned with Armstrong to Youngstown, fought and paid back the favor.

While in Youngstown, Mead paid back another favor, it to Mickie Forkins, who once was a local welterweight, but who now is a Warren, O., hotelkeeper.

It appears Eddie was not so flush and Mickie loaned him money. After Eddie and Armstrong boxed in Youngstown, Mead visited Forkins and returned the loan, though it was years old.

Take the case of Ray Alvis of Chicago, who managed Tony Herrera, the Cherokee Indian-Mexican lightweight.

Not being able to draw against Ray Newton, in the Jolly Bowl. Herrera knocked out Newton in the third round of a bout which failed to draw, hence Promoter Bill Jolly dropped several hundred dollars.

Figuring Herrera had made himself, locally, Alvis was asked to bring Tony back to New Castle, which he did against Frankie Ferro, winning a good fight.

Jack Gannon, wrestling promoter, Cleveland, next Tuesday night in that city, will stage a match between Frank Sexton, holder of the American Association belt and Orville Brown, the National Wrestling Alliance champion, to decide who is heavyweight champion. Ed Strangler Lewis is the commissioner, and Jack Sharkey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, will be the referee. There will be two judges. Gannon has put up a purse of $15,000.

If the match is strictly one in which the grapplers "shoot the works" it will be worth seeing. However, if it is to be a match in which grunts, groans and other burlesque tactics are employed, it will be merely a "vaudeville show."

Judging from Gannon's letter, it will be a real match (two of three falls, one hour and a half time limit), and out of the match, may come a return to real wrestling.

Sexton, who appeared here years ago, in an exhibition, is a former Ohio State football star. He won the Big Ten mat title and on June 27, won the American Association title from Steve Casey in Boston. Brown started out as a blacksmith in Hutchinson, Kas., had some mat experience in high school, bull-dozed steers on the range and in rodeos, then in a mat drive, won the National Wrestling alliance crown in 1946.

Billy Southworth Contending Team To Beat Will Be Braves

By BILLY SOUTHWORTH
(Manager of Boston Braves)
(Written Expressly for International News Service.)

BRADENTON, Fla., March 11—I think we are going to have one of the strongest and closest races in the National League this year.

Every club in the league has improved including the Chicago Cubs. We were good enough to win last year and we are going to be harder to beat this year. We are much stronger in every department.

We are in the driver's seat and we intend to stay there.

I say this because every club in the league is claiming the pennant. Brooklyn has won the pennant already. The statement is out that the Giants are in. In Pittsburgh, it's the Pirates all the way.

Philadelphia is considerably stronger than last year. The Chicago Cubs have strengthened and it wouldn't surprise me to see the club up there. St. Louis has been so busy with new owners that it hasn't gotten around to making a prediction yet. But the Cardinals have a strong ball club and will be a hard team to beat.

Bob Elliott and Al Dark at shortstop will make up the rest of the infield.

I intend to have as much power in the lineup as possible. If Bob Elliott should get injured, I intend to give Pete Reiser a chance to play third.

At the present time I don't know who will make up my outfield, all three positions are open to the best man.

Jeff Heath, Jim Russell and Tommy Holmes will have to prove to me they are better than Don Thompson, Marvin Rickert and Clint Conaster.

Rickert had a great year with our Milwaukee farm and did a wonderful job during the World Series. He is going to be a hard man to keep out of the lineup.

I will have three catchers for the first time since I took over the club. Phil Masi, Bill Salkeld and Paul Burris. Burris looks like one of the best catching prospects in years.

I will carry ten pitchers this year. Sain and Spahn naturally will be my 1-2 choice. The other eight spots are open to anyone.

The team that wins the pennant will have to first beat the Braves, and the Braves don't intend to be beaten.

Welcome Frank Stranahan Back To Masters Tourney

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 11.—Announcement that Frank Stranahan will be invited back to the Augusta Masters Golfers Championship will be welcome to everybody except the professionals.

when Gene Sarazen, Bobby Jones and some of the others were breaking in. It seems to be the hall mark of a great competitor to get into jams until such time as he can keep his taut temper under control.

Stranahan was raised up with the bolster of almost unlimited cash and for awhile wasn't observant of his fellow-competitor's position. He's learned better now, and will bear watching from here on both as a golfer and as a man.

There was never anything wrong with him that growing up couldn't cure. He's grown up.

As for that Augusta incident of last year, there are many people close to golfing who sided with him from the outset as a matter of fair play. They felt he was less to blame than the golf club.

However, because of his several jams in the past, the club showed no hesitancy in slapping him down.

As a matter of fact, that was his only serious jam in this country. He previously had contrived to get himself a mess of adverse publicity on two occasions in England.

Once he fired his caddy—and it developed later that the caddy mightn't have been giving him any of the best of it—and on another occasion he squawked when he was conceded a putt.

There seemed to be no defense for the latter incident, except that Stranahan, as he later explained, plays golf by the book and expects his opponent to do the same.

The promoters of the tournament have relented after keeping him out of one time and will welcome him back with open arms.

Stranahan has been rather severely upbraided from time to time for various golfing sins, and he deserved it all at the time. But this young fellow has grown up and he is now among the greatest golfers in the business today—amateur or professional—but he also is personable and sporting.

It took him a little while to learn these things, but he's got them now and, after all, he never was much worse or any worse, than some of our other leading golfers.

Many a story are told in the locker room of the early days of the links for a long time and managed to get himself into more jams than any player of recent vintage, but he has outgrown his juvenile antics and has profited by them.

The muscular amateur golfer finished second in the Masters two years ago and was rated a good tough contender last year when he was barred for allegedly hitting too many practice shots to a green.
